Oberto Gili
Home Sweet Home
Rizzoli, $85

One of the most respected interior photographers of our time, Oberto Gili has compiled a book of the relaxed, bohemian, and sometimes decadent houses he has photographed. It's a nostalgic and moody collection of homes that feel lived in and loved.

Martyn Lawrence Bullard
Live, Love & Decorate
Rizzoli, $50

"I wanted something ethnic, spicy, and romantic," proclaims Cher about what she wanted (and got) from her designer, Martyn Lawrence Bullard. This book reflects her sentiments, with its star-studded visual feast of color, fantasy, grandeur, and opulence.

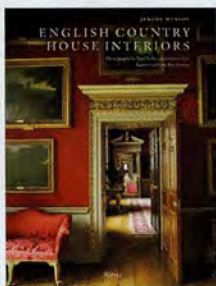

Penny Drue Baird
The New French Interior
The Monacelli Press, $50

A dash of contemporary and a pinch of traditional—Baird examines a bouillabaisse of interiors that make up a fresh, clean look, as reflected in the title. Conveying a definitive French sensibility, this landscape of sophisticated interiors defines what it means to be elegantly urbane.

John A. Tiffany Eleanor Lambert: Still Here
Pointed Leaf Press, $95

A glamorous monograph of public relations star Eleanor Lambert's life, her accomplishments, and her influence. Every page is bursting with insidery information, photographs, press releases, and stories as told by John Tiffany, Lambert's confidant and former assistant. The book details important moments in fashion history—from the creation of the prestigious CFDA awards to the fledgling starts of now-legendary designers. A must-have for the fashion-obsessed or the PR iconoclast-in-training.

Jeremy Musson
English Country House Interiors
Rizzoli, $60

A serious look at 14 of England's most splendid country houses. The imagery captures each magnificent architectural detail and gives a solid inventory of the remarkable period pieces stashed away in each place. Musson provides an in-depth pedigree of what's great about country estates.

Carsten-Peter Warncke
Carl Becker: Decorative Arts from the Middle Ages to the Renaissance
Taschen, $150

If your dream is to study arts and antiques at Christie's or Sotheby's and one day curate at the Metropolitan Museum—this book is a must. A collection of exquisite plates that survey a time of opulent and finely detailed decorative arts.

Frank Roop
The New Bespoke
Pointed Leaf Press, $65

Known for his tailored interiors and unexpected color combinations, designer Frank Roop takes the reader on a journey through his entire creative process—the inspiration, the application, the fabrication, and the final reveal. It's a rare peek into the life of a world-class decorator and an overview of his work. ➤
