Charlotte Olympia

Me-Wow!

We like it when fashion designers start dipping their toes into the world of home decor—especially when the designer is a favorite like Charlotte Olympia (charlotteolympia.com). Known for her whimsical and sometimes downright zany footwear, this Brit with a cult following is taking the plunge into home with a signature candle. Featuring Olympia's iconic gold "Kitty" face, the black candle's scent is a harmonious mix of Indonesian patchouli, neroli, vanilla bourbon, and hints of oak—just purrrfect!

Irving & Morrison

Internationally recognized fabric designers Carolina Irving and Penny Morrison have teamed up to form a line of decorative home accessories under the name Irving & Morrison (irvingandmorrison.com). This dream team specializes in everything from silk lampshades and cushions to ottomans and rugs. Their creations—a fusion of English country charm and bohemian flair—are all handcrafted, using one-off fabrics from around the globe. —A. H.

York Wallcoverings

Keep on Rolling

America's longest-standing and largest wallpaper manufacturing company, York Wallcoverings (yorkwall.com) is celebrating its 120th birthday by introducing new collections from design favorites Candice Olson, Waverly, and many others.

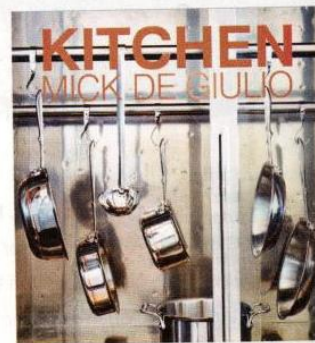

Oscar + Elson

Since taking the reins as creative director almost two years ago, Carolina Irving has been infusing the Oscar de la Renta home line (oscardelarenta.com/house-home) with her highbrow-gypsy vibe; she is a master at transforming proper, seemingly stuffy designs into the impossibly cool. Having already added a fine china pattern and loads of home accessories, Irving is focusing on expanding the existing rug line. Joining the extensive offerings are seven hand-knotted woolen rugs produced by the company's partner for a decade, Elson & Co.
